At any level, we've committed to getting it just right.

Building a better background screening company.

In the early 2000s, Mega Group Investigations – our (big) sister company – was hired by a Fortune 100 company to conduct an internal fraud investigation. In the process, investigators heard from HR supervisors frustrated by their current pre-employment provider. Glacially slow turnaround times and unreliable communication from their provider were hurting the department's ability to be effective.

Time and again, HR felt that great applicants were being poached by competitors and higher-risk applicants were slipping through the cracks. It was clear the company's pre-employment screener had exposed the client to serious liabilities, but was also hindering its opportunity for continued growth.

Out of this, Mega Group Online was born – the newest member of the Mega Group family, but with the same high standard for which the brand is recognized.
